MAIN RESEARCH INTERESTS

- Study of virus-host cell interactions, with particular attention at the identification of intracellular factors involved in the control of viral replication and inflammatory response;
- Characterization of the role of microbial agents in the pathogenesis of chronic-degenerative diseases;
- Identification and characterization of new natural and synthetic compounds with antiviral activity;
- Study of the relationships between different microorganisms in the pathogenesis of mixed infections.

In the last years Anna Teresa Palamara has been coordinating as PI several projects including:

- PRIN 2015: "Persistent and latent viral infections: mechanisms controlling viral reactivation/replication and chronic/degenerative damages".
- Programma Operativo Nazionale (PON) 2011: "Sviluppo di molecole capaci di modulare vie metaboliche intracellulari redox-sensibili per la prevenzione e la cura di patologie infettive, tumorali, neurodegenerative e loro delivery mediante piattaforme nano tecnologiche".

Research group directed by prof. Palamara collaborates with prestigious National and International laboratories. In the contest of a collaborative project on HSV-1, in 2002, prof. Palamara worked as Visiting Professor at Infectious Disease Division of University of California, directed by prof. Fenyong Liu, in Berkeley.
